

1910 Class in Sublimity Public School district No. 7

Back row: Sr. M. Delores, Nick Heuberger, John Susbauer, Tony Schulte, Tony Steinkamp, Frank Rauscher, Joe Odenthal, Joe Wolf, Joe Steinkamp, Isidor Bell

Third row: Angeline Kintz, Mame VanHandel, Annie Prang, Alice Mick, Helen Freres, Agnes Boedigheimer, Emma Hendricks, Katie Spenner, Margaret Schulte, Katie VanHandel

Second row: Isabelle Ditter, Clara Doerfler, Gertrude Benedict, Hannah Heuberger, Lizzie Odenthal, Edith Highberger, Teresa Ditter, Katie Albus, Genevieve Ditter Clara Rauscher, Rose Hottinger, Aggie Barkmeyer

Front row: Ed Bell, Tony Spenner, Ed Pieser, Fred Ritzinger, Albert Boedigheimer, Eugene Ditter, George Odenthal, Frank Wolf, Alva Zuber

In those days, there was no problem for everyone to attend the same public school where Catholic nuns in "uniform" also taught. In 1923 Oregon passed the "garb bill," which prohibited public school teachers from wearing religious dress. This cooperative arrangement was followed in Sublimity: Grades 1, 2, and 3 were taught by the sisters in the Catholic school; grades 4, 5, and 6 were taught by district teachers in the public school, and grades 7 and 8 were taught by the sisters in the Catholic school. The district also rented a classroom in the Catholic school.